7. DATA PRIVACY STATEMENT

§ 1 (Data processing purpose) The performance of the order concerning the obtainment of a visa or an electronic travel permit for GREAT BRITAIN in accordance with the order form for the client/applicant requires the collection, transmission and therefore processing of the personal data provided by the client/applicant via Visas United e. K. to the official consular representation of the destination country in Germany or to the consular/immigration authorities of the respective destination country in the third country, including outside of the EU.

The data will be processed in the country in which the data importer, i.e. the consular representation or consular/immigration authorities of the third country, is based.

Embassies & consulates of third countries (including outside of the EU) and their employees represent the consular/immigration authorities of their home country in the host country. Under Art. 22 and Art. 31 of the Vienna Convention on Diplomatic Relations, they receive special protection and may not be automatically subject to the jurisdiction of the host country or to applicable EU law. Personal data required for visa applications will therefore be processed de facto in the country represented by its consular representation in Germany or the EU even if this representation is in the territory of Germany or of the EU.

The consular representation or immigration authorities of the third country are included due to the fact that Visas United e. K. cannot fulfil the visa/electronic travel permit requirements of the order placed by the applicant/client and can merely act as a representative and on behalf of the applicant as a broker towards the consular representation/immigration authorities of the destination country (third country).

§ 2 (Special categories of data) The performance of the order will, depending on the current visa application requirements of the destination country, require the transfer of special categories of personal data to the respective consular representation or immigration authority. Depending on the data needed for the order, this may include personal data that reveals racial or ethnic origins, political opinions, religion or beliefs, trade union membership, biometric data, etc. The order relevant here concerning the obtainment of a visa/electronic travel permit may require the transmission of such personal data to the consular representation/immigration authorities of the destination country for the purpose of order fulfilment.

§ 3 (Adequacy decision) There may be no adequacy decision by the European Commission in the sense of Art. 45(1 & 3) of the General Data Protection Regulation for the country in which the consular representation/immigration authority is based or that is represented by a consular representation in Germany and in which the personal data will therefore be processed. This means that the European Commission has not yet positively declared the level of data protection of the respective country to be comparable to that of the European Union under the General Data Protection Regulation.

§ 4 (Appropriate safeguards) Art. 46(2 & 3) of the General Data Protection Regulation requires so-called appropriate safeguards for data transmissions to third countries or to international organisations. These may not be present for the destination country.

§ 5 (Potential risks) Potential risks related to the above-stated sections and that cannot be excluded for the applicant/client especially include:

- Your personal data may be transferred by the consular /immigration authorities for purposes beyond those of order performance.
- You may not be able to exercise or enforce your right to access against the consular /immigration authorities.
- Inaccurate data processing may be highly likely since the technical and organisational measures for the protection of personal data may quantitatively and qualitatively not correspond to the requirements of the General Data Protection Regulation.

§ 6 (Consent / withdrawal) For the performance of the services I commissioned, I expressly consent to the transfer of my personal data, including special categories of data (see § 2) in the sense of Art. 9(1) of the General Data Protection Regulation, to consular /immigration authorities in the above-stated destination country or who represent this country in Germany or the EU.

I may withdraw this consent at any time from Visas United, Gruppellostraße 21, 40210 Düsseldorf, Germany, Tel. 0211-9365000, Fax 0211-93650020, the controller. However, withdrawal will not affect the lawfulness of processing performed prior to the withdrawal. In this case Visas United e. K. will be unable to perform and will therefore not conclude the main contract (order) and may terminate this contract immediately.
